Origins and Evolution: From Personal Grief to Global Phenomenon

The Birth of the Museum in Zagreb

The Museum of Broken Relationships was founded in 2006 by Croatian filmmakers Olinka Vištica and Dražen Grubišić. The idea was born out of a desire to cope with their own breakup, transforming their personal pain into a creative project. The initial exhibit was a modest collection of personal items and stories, displayed in a small gallery in Zagreb. The response was overwhelmingly positive, with visitors connecting deeply to the narratives of love lost, betrayal, and heartbreak. Recognizing the universal nature of these experiences, the founders expanded their concept beyond their local context.

The museum fosters a cathartic process: sharing painful memories in a safe space, validating

For visitors, the museum offers a space to reflect on their own relationships, find comfort in shared stories, and perhaps even discover new ways of coping.

Challenging Cultural Norms

The museum also challenges societal taboos surrounding heartbreak and failure. It encourages open dialogue about love's complexities, including betrayal, rejection, and vulnerability. By doing so, it promotes emotional honesty and reduces stigma associated with relationship struggles.
